

A day in: Technology, Data & Innovation at Deutsche Bank

Deutsche Bank is diverse and offers Internship and Graduate opportunities across various business areas. But what exactly do each of these businesses do, what are the typical tasks and skills needed to succeed? Which division would best suit your talents and skill-set? Join our virtual event "A day in: Technology, Data & Innovation" and have these questions answered. Get to know some of the technology teams from our Frankfurt headquarters and Berlin Tech Centre. Based on realistic projects, you will gain exciting insights and hear first-hand what a career in these teams could look like. Get to know some of our technology graduates, colleagues, and members of the early careers team - expand your network and have your questions answered! Please note that this event will take place virtually on Microsoft Teams - further login details to follow once you have registered.

Why should you join the live stream:

- Exclusive insights: Learn first-hand what we do as a global bank for our clients around the world.
- Network: Network with colleagues from Technology, Data & Innovation and members of the early careers team.
- Q&A: Take the opportunity to ask questions to help with your career planning.
